

The University of Cincinnati's office of Continuing Medical Education is committed to assisting physicians and the healthcare community with resources and tools to effectively manage the emerging swine flu epidemic.

We are pleased to share with you resources from the CDC about the current information and healthcare measures related to swine flu. Please go to www.cdc.gov/swineflu <<http://www.cdc.gov/swineflu>> and/or your local, regional or state incident command center. The CDC site contains information in print, podcast and Spanish translation for your use.